O'DONNELL IN PRISON.

CLOSELY GUARDED BY THE POLICE. HIS ARRIVAL WITNESSED BY CROWDS-ARRAIGNED AND REMANDED.

LONDON, Sept. 18 .- O'Donnell, the murderer of Carey, was taken from the steamer Athenian when three miles off Southampton, by the police tug, and brought to the cattle-sheds at the end of the quay. It was closed to the public, and the local police goarded the gangway. A large detachment of Londen police surrounded O'Donnell and his party as they landed.

As soon as it became publicly known that the prisoner had landed, a rush was made by the crowd long the neighboring quays, but the measure taken by the police were so excellent that the publie obtained only a distant view of the party. O'Donnell took a seat in a first-class carriage, policemen filling the remaining seats.

The Vauxhall depot was strongly held by the police, only railway passengers and newspaper reporters being allowed to pass the barriers. presence of the large body of police attracted the attention of the public, and the news spread rapidly throughout the streets that O'Donnell had arrived, a large crowd gathering to get a view of him. On alighting from the train the prisoner was immediately surrounded by an impenetrable ring of police. Outside of the station, while the prisoner was entering the van, a few ruffians attempted to raise a cheer, which was met with some hisses. A strong guard was placed inside the van, behind which followed a cab filled with officers. The procession then started, mounted police encircling the van. A few hisses and cheers were again raised, but the crowd generally were apathetic. On arriving at Millbank the prisoner was placed in a cell.

O'Donnell was taken to Bow StreetPoliceCourt this afternoon. He was closely guarded by mounted police, and passed through the streets at a rapid pace Frederick Flowers was the presiding magistrate Mr. Poland appeared for the Crown and stated that the prisoner was charged with murder upon the high seas, within the jurisdiction of the Admiralty of England and of this Court. The witnesses fo the Crown had not yet arrived in England, as it was not deemed advisable to bring them on the same vessel with the prisoner. Mr. Poland asked that the prisoner be remanded for a week. Flowers accordingly remanded him until Tuesday.

The prisoner gave his name at Bow Street as Patrick O'Donnell, though he is described in the charge as "Michael O'Donnell, pudder, of Gadowre, County Donegal, Ireland." The police have been active in the Nationalist quarters of London to-day making inquiries as to what connection, if any, O'Donnell, after shooting Carey, said: "Shake hands, Mrs. Carey; I had to do it!"—not, "I did not do it!" as was at first reported. It is understood that Mrs. Carey has offered evidence which, he declares, will clear her husband's character. She has handed letters to the authorities, which include the correspondence of a member of Parliament. The prisoner gave his name at Bow Street as

The Irish Times, of Dublin, says: "It is certain that the police had warning that an attempt to rescue O'Donnell would be made by a 'forlor hope,' composed of Fenians of London, Liverpool and Manchester. This desperate enterprise was not carried out, bowever, owing to the precautions. not carried out, botters.

CHARGES AGAINST JOHN R. M'LEAN.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 18 .- Charges of unmercantile conduct were made to-day by Murat Halstead, president, and Richard Smith, vice-president of The Comercial Gazette Company, against John R. McLean of The Enquirer. The charges are based upon what has been said in The Enquirer of late regarding the business of The Commercial Gazette, that its stock was without value and large blocks of it were continually on the market and cannot be sold at any price, that the small stockholders have been cheated and that that the small stockholders have been cheated and that the reporters have not been paid for two successive weeks. These charges The Commercial Gasete Company say are without a particle of considerion. Facy have been made, it is claimed, for the purpose of injuring the paper, and the complainants ask that John McLean be called to appear before a board of officers of the Comber of Commerce, to be required to show cause why he shall not be suspended or expelled from the Chamber as the board may see proper after a fair hearing of the case. In an interview regarding the matter Richard Smith said that McLean's conduct had been so our ageous that something had to be done. There is nothing in alighel suit, and ashe and Murat Hailstead both be oaged to the Camber of Commerce they had decided to proceed in the way they had began. He said The Commercial Gazelle was in a prosperous condition, with no debts and large carnings. None of the stockholders had regretted consolidation, and were it to be done over again they would all vote for it.

THE MASSACHUSETIS CAMPAIGN.

HENRY L. PIERCE RETIRES FROM THE FIELD.

HIS HEALTH NOT SUCH AS TO WARRANT HIS ENTER ING UPON THE CANVASS-THE NOMINATION OF

MR. ROBINSON CRGED, INY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.

Boston, Sept. 18 .- The retirement of Henry L Pierce from the Gubernatorial canvass, which took everybody by surprise this afternoon, will be likely to have a ery decided effect upon the prospects of the Republican party this fall. While Mr. Pierce is an able, conscientious, decisive man, with large moneyed resources, and a host of powerful personal friends in Boston, he had also some elements of weakness which the Butler party would not have been slow to discover and make available for party capital. It will be a personal campaign so far as Butler is concerned, and Mr. Pierce is not a thickskinned man. He has not been in enough political fights to become indifferent to the dirty personal standers which are likely to be hurled this year by the unserupulous crowd, greedy for office. It is said that Butler has boasted that, if certain prominent gentlemen who have been spoken of for candidates for Governor should be nominated, he would open up their private records and make charges which would have an unwholesome effect upon their candidacy. Be this as it may, it is unquestionably true that Butier's mud machine will be set in motion and he and his satellites will run it at high pressure. It is not intimated that Mr. Pierce is open to such attacks. but he naturally is averse to entering upon a campaign where such batteries must be met and silenced to secure victory. Mr. Pierce's health is not sufficiently robust to warrant the severe strain which the campaign would involve. Following is the text of Mr. Pierce's letter retiring from the field:

REDMAN FARM, PONKAPOG, Mass., Sept. 17, 1883. Sept. 17, 1883. HENRY CABOT LODGE, Chairman Republican State

HENRY CABOT LODGE, Chairman Republican State Central Committee.

DEAR SIR: On my return home a few days ago from a short journey necessitated by the condition of my health, which had become impaired by cares of business, I found that, among others, I had been suggested as a possible candidate for the office of Governor of this Commonwealth. In deference to the wishes of my friends I have hesitated (longer, perhaps, than I ought) to repeat what I said before I went away, namely, that I would not be a candidate for thst or any other political office, and that I regarded Mr. Robinson as the man upon whom the opponents of Butlerism could best unite.

The numerous testimentals of personal regard and confidence which I have received, not only from those with whom I have been in political accord, but from many representative men in this and considence which I have received, not only from those with whom I have been in political accord, but from many representative men in this and other States with whom I have often felt obliged to diller, while they are exceedingly gratifying to my personal feelings, cannot blind me to the fact that my action on some political questions in the past and my opinions on some of the questions which will undoubtedly enter into the coming political contest in this State may prevent that unity of action which is necessary in order to redeem the Commonwealth from an administration of its chief executive office which is unparalleled in its disregard of decency and propriety. Moreover, I cannot help feeling a sense of insecurity in the present condition of my health, which having given way under the ordinary cares of business is bardly in a state to reet the added responsibilities of an active political canvass. It appears to me therefore that my duty to the Convention which is to be held on Wednesday, as well as my duty to myself, requires me to decline absolutely and unconditionally to be a candidate for the office of Governor. The gentleman upon whom the choice of the Convention will naturally and properly fall is in every way worthy to represent all the opponents of the present Stace Administration, and it will be my pleasure no less than my duty to give his candidacy my earnest and hearty support. I am very truly yours,

When Congressman Robinson first heard of Mr. When Congressman Robinson first heard of Mr

Pierce's letter of declination he expressed astonishment. He said frankly that he had hoped the nom nation would go to Mr. Pierce and had no thought otherwise. When asked if there was any truth in the rumor that he also would write a letter of declination he answered that he should not. His position was this: He should accept the nomination if the party saw fit to nominate him, but he sincerely hoped some other Republican would be Chairman Lodge and Mr. Beard visited Mr. Pierce this morning and were surprised to find him in a condition of health which positively forable his undertaking the duties of a campaign. Neither Mr. Lodge nor Mr. Beard felt it right to urge Mr. Pierce to withhold his already prepared letter. He had to withhold his already pipelar in the been delaying its publication, hoping for an improvement in his health, and also in deterence to the wishes of his friends. The party managers were taken entirely by surprise in this matter, notwithstanding their having received private information regarding the delicate condition of Mr. Percent health.

Pierce's health.

At a meeting of the Republican State Committee this afternoon the general sentiment of the members was expressed as decidedly in favor of influencing as far as possible all the Pierce delegates to the Convention to-morrow to east their ballots for Congressman Robinson, of Chicopee.

There is no lack of good material for candidates; but Mr. Robinson is now more likely to be now; There is no lack of good material for candidates; but Mr. Robinson is now more likely to be nominated than any other man named, although Judge Devens might have received the nomination had he sought it in advance. It has been supposed that he would not be willing to leave the position of Supreme Court Judge for that of Governor; but, notwithstanding his declination a few days ago to be considered a candidate, it is stated that he told a friend recently that if he was nominated without his seeking he would leave the Bench and stump the State against Butler.

The Conventions will be called to orderfat 11 a, m. to morrow, in Music Hall, by Henry Cabot Lodge, of Nahant, chairman of the State Central Committee, and prayer will be offered by the Rev. Orvin P. Gifford, of the Warren Avenue Eaptist Church.

The physicians who have been attending him pronounce his disorder to be rheumatic gout, sufferings have been intense at times, although the case did not assume at any time a dangerous aspect his family have naturally been anxious in regard to its issue. Mr. Wallack has now pretty well recovered from the attack, and his son, Arthur Wallack, yesterday expressed the belief that he would soon be able to leave his room and get out-of-doors again. This is the first serious illness which the popular actor and manager has ever experienced, and he has naturally been somewhat impatient under the unaccustomed re-straint. Rehearsals were begun at his theatre yesterday morning of "Masks and Faces," which will open the fal season at the house on October 1. This will be followed after a brief to be the dramatization of Ouida's novel "Motiss," which, ach'ved a success last season in Lon-don. Madame Minnie Hauk was among the pasengers on the steamship France, which arrived from Havre last evening. "Then I saw 'Parsifal'! Never was there an opera put upon the stage with such magnificent scenery. All the artists were the same as at the original production of the work, and they sang for a mere nothing, owing to the enormous expenses of the undertaking. I was intensely interested and went to see it repeatedly.

"I have rested and recuperated, and am ready to do a great deal of work. My senson begins next week at the Worcester Festival, with the oratorio of 'Samson.' Then I expect to make an extended tour of the Southern States, where I have never been since I sang in New-Orleans, when only thirteen years old, at a benefit to the orphan children of that city. I will give scenes from the operas of "Lakiné" and "Colomba," besides singing in concert. "Colomba" was the great success of the past London season. And I will give another chire opera of the same name, hardly ever given, but whose composer is no less a personage than Gounod."

THE MYSTERIOUS STRATFORD MURDER. THE GOVERNOR'S OFFER OF A REWARD-ITS

POSSIBLE EFFECT. FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE. STRATFORD, Conn., Sept. 18 .- The statement made by William Lewis yesterday to The Trinens cor respondent to the effect that the stain on William Lewis's ap robe was due to the drippings from a basket of outcher's meat carried from market more than a year are, is considered by the Coroner and detectives to be of considerable import. It seems clear that the story is a little too ingenious. In the first place Mr. Hol says the stain which was shown him by the detectives was a deep red mark about two inches long, that it was apparently fresh and had evidently been submitted no washing process. Coroner Holt, however, referred laughingly to the Brush case, in which the dress of one of the suspected persons was found to be stained in a suspicious manner. She told an elaborate story of carrying home some liver from Bridgeport in a thir proce of paper, and finding her dress stained with blood on her arrival home. An ingentous way out of the sup-posed difficulty, had not Dr. White proved the status no

o be blood at all, but some vegetable substance. Early this morning the detectives were in the village, and one of the first places they visited was Lewis's house, where they asked for Mrs. Lewis. For the present, at least, Naugatuck Valley is left in peace from tomicillary visits, and nothing so farghas come to the surface to throw any more light on the " other girl" to whom Lewis is supposed to have been paying bis, ad-

The principal topic of conversation in Stratford is the nation issued last night by Governor Waller of fering a reward of $1,500. The proclamation was only issued at a L.'s hour, for at 6 o'clock in the evening see retary Zacher stated positively that no word had yet been received from the Governor. One of the officials connected with the case said that though he though the reward offered should have been the full $3,000, as recommended by State-Attorney Fessenden, he had not withstanding little faith in the mereased reward spurring any one on to arther efforts. "The inet is," said he, "that in my opinion a large reward is only productive of good results when several persons have been concerned in a crime and one is tempted to turn informer. In this case, even admitting that two were concerned in the murder, there were certainly no more, and their guil, must have been preitly nearly equal. My own opinion is, however, that only one man is to-day certain as to who killed Rose Clink, and that is the murderer himself." To the Stratfordians, however, the proclamation seems to afford the greatest satisfiaction. retary Zacher stated positively that no word had yet however, the proclamation seems to afford the greatest satisfaction.

Of actual news there is little to-day, except a statement made by some of the villagers to the effect that on the Tuesday after the murder Lewis did not visit Birmingham at all. This, if true, is important, as the Birmingham greeryman wavers only between Monday and Tuesday as the day on which Lewis told min that mayir! had been murdered, and, if it was Monday, it is an important fact against Lewis Rose Clark's grave is being rapidly despoiled of the withering flowers placed over it by loving maints, for every one of the may euriosity mongers who visit it bears off a sprig or two as a memento. The gist of conversations neld to-day between The Triburne's correspondent and State Attorney Fessenden, Coroner Holt, and Detectives Arnoid, Wood and Biobins, is to the effect that though nothing can be disclosed at present, there is evidence in the hands of the authorities which will probably prove important.

MISCELLANEOUS RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

WATERVILLE, Me., Sept. 18 .- A committee of seven of the Maine Central Railroad Company's directors met here to-day to consider a proposit lease their read to the Boston and Maine Railroad Company. A communication to President Lord, of the Bos ton and Maine road, was drawn up and signed by all present, the contents of which it is not deemed proper to give to the public at this date. It is evident that no declaive action has been taken.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—In the war of passenger rates between Chicago and Louisville this morning the Pan Handle opened with a rate of $4.50, which the Monon route (the Louisvine, New-Aibany and Chicago) at once met. It is said that the "scalpers" are selling at $4, and as the Pan Handle professes to be fighting against silowing commissions to the "scalpers" it will probably drop to that figure. KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 18. -Sir Henry W. Tyler, pres ident of the Grand Trunk and Great Western railway companies, passed over the West Shore road to-day on a special train, accompanied by the officers of the West Shore Company, and E. D. Adams, of Winslow, Lanier PORTLAND, Oregon, Sept. 18 .- Henry Villard, in a let ter to the Astoria Chamber of Commerce, says he regrets that the estimates of the cost of the line from Portland to Astoria are so large that it will be impossi-ble for the Oregon Transcontinental Company to undertake its construction. The people of Astoria are greatly disappointed. CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—The General Passenger and Ticket Agents' Association of the United States began its quarterly meeting here to-day. There was a large representation from all parts of the country present. The session was not an extended one. A resolution to reaf firm the rule providing that passengers be not allowed more than 250 pounds of bargage free was passed. A motion to reaffirm and return to schedule rates on all the lines represented in the association on October 1, and thereatter to maintain them rigidir, passed without dissent. The association will continue in session to-moreover.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18 .- Mr. Gowen, president of the Reading Railroad, was asked to-day if the report on the street that his company would pay a scrip dividend on the stock next January was correct. He replied: "I hope so, If October and November are as good as August and September, I will certainly advocate it.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 18.-In the United States Court to-day Judge Caldwell issued an order restraining the Memphis and Little Rock Railroad Company from discriminating against through freight or passen-gers shipped over the St. Louis and Texas Railway in Arkansas.

Judge Field, of the Supreme Court, for the dissolution of the injunction in the suit of Roland G. Hazard against the Vermont Consolidated Railroad Company in con formity with the opinion recently rendered by Judge Wheeler, of the Circuit Court in Vermont. Judge Field intimated that he would grant the motion in a few days if no further action was taken.

A FATALLY DEFECTIVE COUPLING. PLACING THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE HUNTER'S The continuation of the Coroner's inquest

into the facts of the collision at Hunter's Point last week developed last night a few facts which will have an im portant influence on the verdict of the Coroner's Jury and the action of the authorities. Coroner Robinson educted the inquest and District-Attorney Downing, of Queens County, examined the witnesses. The first person called was James Horton, one of the brakeme on the Wanhattan Beach train. He said that he did no think that the two brakemen and the conductor could have stopped the train (which was travelling at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour) by tightening the handbrakes after Engineer Glenn had blown his signal. He also said that the brakemen were required to punca tickets as well as to attend to brakes. Thomas B. Curry, a cierk in Superintendent Barton's Thomas B. Curry, a cierk in Superintendent Barton's employ, described the tracks at Montauk Junction and said that the distance between the railway bridge and the place where the accident occurred was 2,400-4 feet. S. B. Ayres, the next witness, substantiated Horton's testimony in its main points and naded: "I told the conductor several times that the coupling between the partor car and the car next to it was unsafe. They were connected by a crooked from coupling, which any sudden snock, would break, and then nothing would save the rear car from telescoping. If the cars had been on a level and the coupling had been straight not a life would have been lost."

lever and the conjung man been sirsight not a like would have been used."

Charles Thompson, the master mechanic of the company, was subjected to a close examination by the District Attorney. He said: "The parior car was four inches higher than the coach following it and I think the coupling was said for all ordinary purposes and would not have been broken had not the collision occurred. I think the reason of the loss of like was that the passengers stood on the platforms. If they had been inside the car they would simply have been pushed forward ans not killed. Probably the telescoping would not have occurred had simply have been straight. I have occurred had the coupling has been straight. I have never made any protest against that system of coupling."

"Now, Mr. Thompson," sand the District-Attorney, "if the traismenter not responsible we don't want them to suffer. We intend to punish the persons who are to biame even if we take it home to the officials of the road. I missed to find out now far the defective couplings in lineaced the loss of life, and will you answer me notestly in this connection who was responsible for the making time for the intended.

in this connection who was responsible for the making upport the trains?"
"First," replied the witness, "Superintendent Barton, then Trainmaster durrows and lastly myself. The coupling was poriectly safe to draw the cars, and we never an interpretary contains. The trains were made up at Hunter's Point and were not changed until they returned." turned."
The inquest was then adjourned until to morrow 8 p.m. The Coroner stated to a Influence reporter that he would take no action in the matter further than holding the inquest until that was concluded, but that then some arrests might be made.

NO RELIEF FOR GREELY THIS FALL.

THE DECISION AT WASHINGTON-TALKS WITH SEC-RETARIES LINCOLN AND CHANDLER, IBY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNG Washington, Sept. 18. - In conversation

with a Tainune correspondent to-night Secretary Chan-dier said: "The conclusion was reached to-day by Secretary Lincoln and myself that nothing can be done this fall or winter for the relief of Licotecant Greely and his party. The orders to the Yantie and Powhatan to return to the United States, bringing Lieutenant Garlington and party, were not actually issued by me, but will undoubtedly be forwarded to-morrow unless further consultation changes the decision already reached. All the plans which anybody has suggested for the relief of Lieutenant Greely and his party have been considered, including that receiv to-day from Chief Engineer Meiville. Consultations have been had with everybody in Washington who has had any experience in Arctic voyages-Captain George E. Tyson and Emil Bissels, who were in the Polaris expedition, Captain J. A. Greer, and others. All the plans for action prior to next spring as-sume that a vessel may safely go this fail to Upernavik or beyond to Cape York or Cape Athol. Melville's proposition is based solely upon the ability of a vessel to reach Cape York, but all opinions agree that probably no vessel could with complete safety go further than Disco Bay, and that Upernavik cannot be reached without peril to the vessel and all on board. If, then, there were reasonable grounds to hope that from Upernavik either this fail or early next spring relief parties could go to Greely's assistance, yet neither Secretary Lincoln nor myself would feel willing to risk the loss of additional lives, which might happen in an effort at this time to send a vessel to Upernavik. But, then, if a vessel could reach Upernavik nothing could be accomplished beyond there to help Greely. There has never been any sledge communication between that settlement and Lit-ticton Island, or with the Etah Esquimaux, who live near the latter point. Gardington and his party, it is true, came from the northward of Littleton Island to Upernavik, but they travelled by oats and not by sledges, and that in August, whereas in October such a voyage would be impracticable." As to what Lieutenant Greely may do Secretary Chandler said: "Upon his arrival at Littleton Island, and finding that he can expect no help this year, he may to one of three things. He may attempt to tete. After the loss of the Proteus Lieutenant Garina ron left near Cape Sabine a caché containing 503 sations and a large supply of clothing. At or near the same place 500 ratious had been left previously, These supplies will last the Greely party forty days.
